150-400 Dead In Greek Quakes

Relief Rushed; Towns Reported Flattened

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—The Greek government rushed aid today to a group of Ionian Sea islands, devastated by a series of earthquakes. The official death toll stood at 150 but survivors predicted it would top 400.

The Navy Ministry announced that the landing ship Alfeo reached the ravaged island of Kefallinia last night with medical personnel and emergency supplies. It also carried Minister of Welfare Constantine Adamopoulos to take personal charge of relief work.

Prime Minister Alexander Pappas promised all possible government aid would be sped to homeless survivors.

Kefallinia and its neighboring islands off the west-central Greek coast have been rocked by a wave of recurring quakes since Monday.
The fourth tremor in three days shook the area last night.

Whole Towns Destroyed

Scattered and fragmentary reports told of whole towns being destroyed, of survivors living in the open and short of food.

The governor's office of Kefal-linia appealed for helicopters to fly doctors, nurses and medical supplies to the stricken islands. It described the situation as "hopeless."

Reports said fears of new quakes kept unhurt inhabitants from searching the wreckage of their towns and villages for dead and injured.

The quakes knocked out most communications with the islands but witnesses reaching the mainland said the town of Samis, on Kefallinia, had been completely wiped out. Samis was an important center in ancient Greek days.

Boulders Crush Buildings

The witnesses told of house-sized boulders crushing buildings in the town of 15,000 as though they had been matchboxes and described pathetic scenes of parents searching in the rubble for missing children.

The survivors of Samis, they said, have fled the town and are living without shelter in the open country.

All buildings in the port of Ithaca, on nearby Ithaca Island, were reported destroyed. The island was legendary home of the Homeric greek hero Ulysses. The port has a population of 8,400.

The main port of the island of Zakinthos, a town of 11,315 persons, was reported 75 per cent destroyed. First scanty accounts said, however, that only 5 persons were killed and 35 injured in the town because the inhabitants had warning and fled to the country.

Fears were expressed for the fate of other communities in the back country of the rocky islands.
Many of these have no quick means of communications with the outside under normal conditions.
There has been no news from them since early Tuesday.

Liberated ROKs Again In Pitiful Condition; 328 GIs Head For U. S.

PANMUNJOM (AP)—One hundred hale and happy Americans streamed through the Bamboo Curtain at Panmunjom today to start the second dramatic week of Korean War prisoner exchange.

But their South Korean comrades again came home in wretched shape. Pitiful living skeletons were passed tenderly from Communist ambulances to litters carried by Allied soldiers.

Four hundred in all got their freedom during the day: 100 Americans, 25 British, 25 Turks, 250 South Koreans.

The Communists promised to hand over 75 Americans, 75 British and 250 South Koreans—all able-bodied—at Thursday's swap, the ninth since the exchange started.
This will boost the number of Americans liberated to 823 of 3,313
the Reds said they held.

A big transport carrying the first of the freed prisoners lands at Travis Air Force Base near San Francisco today. Fourteen seriously ill former prisoners and three neuro-psychiatric cases were reported aboard.

After transfer to Letterman
Army Hospital in San Francisco, the men will be moved to hospitals nearest their homes or best suited to handle their ailments.

328 Leave Korea
And 328 healthy ex-POWs were en route home aboard the transport General Walker, which left Korea Tuesday for the two-week journey.

Another 60 liberated Americans, classed as sick and wounded, were aboard the hospital ship Haven in Inchon harbor on Korea's west coast. The Haven's departure date has not been announced.

The Reds were 2 hours and 25 minutes late in making the last delivery Wednesday of 25 Americans and 25 British. It was the first flaw in an otherwise smooth operation.

The Communists said the reason for the delay was that they had been unable to get men from Camp
1 at Chongsong to the Kaesong collecting center just north of Panmunjom.

Says GIs Will Be In Korea For Years

SEOUL (AP)—U. S. Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens said today he believes American and other Allied troops will remain in Korea "for several years."

Stevens then left for the United States by plane after an eight-day visit. He came with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and took part in talks with President Syng-man Rhee.

A few hours before his departure, Stevens visited Freedom Village to greet returning U. S. prisoners of war.

"We are getting all the information we possibly can from all returning POWs about those soldiers who are missing," he told reporters.

"We are getting a fair amount of information accumulated, but we can only take whatever action the government deems appropriate at the proper time."

Stevens referred to stories of American prisoners jailed by the Communists for "some so-called infringements of the rules."

Jet Falls Into Homes, 9 Dead

5 Children, 2 Women, Airmen Die In Canada

VILLE JACQUES CARTIER, Que. (AP)—A Canadian Air Force jet crashed into two homes last night, killing five children and two women in the houses and the two airmen in the plane.

The charred bodies were taken to the morgue in Montreal, just across the St. Lawrence River from here. The civilians were identified as:

Mrs. Marcel Bourassa, 30; her two children, Michel, 6, and Ginette, 2, and her mother, Mrs. Em-ilien Fournier, 57. They were in Mrs. Fournier's house.

Pierre, Colette and Normand Lavoie—5 years, 4 years and 2 months old, respectively. They were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Lavoie, residents of the other house which the plane hit.

The Air Force withheld the names of the plane's crew.

Mrs. Fournier's husband Emilien and their two other daughters, Simone, 32, and Denise, 18, were treated at a Montreal hospital for shock. They were not in the house at the time.

Mrs. Bourassa and her children had arrived to visit her mother only a few minutes before the crash.

Witnesses said the pilot of the plane, a CF100N all-weather fighter, tried to clear the two houses but could not reach an open field beyond.

Flames roared through the two houses and trapped the occupants inside. The houses were leveled within minutes.

ed in the theft of autos in the respective towns last week.

The two from East Liverpool sent to Lancaster were 16 and one was a parolee from the school. The youths from Salem were 15 and 16.
The boys returned to their parents were 12 and 15.

Stranded Tourists Seek To Leave Nation

General Strike Throws France Deep In Chaos

PARIS (AP)—France's growing general strike pushed the nation deeper and deeper into chaos today with no end in sight, but multimillionaire Premier Joseph Laniel stuck by his economy guns.

Furious at the government's plans to balance its budget by trimming payrolls and upping the retirement age for civil servants, more than a million railwaymen, miners and government workers kept up their indefinite walkout.

Railroads, mines, public utilities, government services, posts, telephone and telegraphs were all paralyzed or hit hard.

The Socialist Workers Force (FO) called on 850,000 white collar workers—doctors, dentists, lawyers and office employees—to join the strikers for 24 hours tomorrow.

Paris's subways and buses halted late last night for 24 hours.

Disturbed tourists fled the strike-bound country. With trains and buses halted, every outgoing plane was jammed. Shipping lines scur-ried for special buses to take their passengers to channel ports, and to collect arrivals.

The American Express and Cook's travel agency were besieged with travel applicants, all wanting out. Many vacationers were running out of money; the communications strike kept them from getting more from home.

Foreigners planning to visit France soon rearranged their itineraries. Other West European countries got ready for a bonanza of unexpected business. France's tourist industry faced huge losses.

Laniel remained grim but calm, to all outward appearances. Showing no signs of weakening, he planned a broadcast appeal to the nation tonight.

His aides talked themselves hoarse, trying to convince union leaders their fears of the proposed government decrees were unfounded. To all indications the unionists were unconvinced, and the strikes were expected to spread.

The government called on troops to man trucks and buses to help with the transportation crisis, and some troops also worked on the piled-up mails. All of them made little headway against the confusion.

The strike wave began last week when non-Communist postal, telephone and telegraph employees quit, saying they would stay out until Laniel abandoned his then only rumored retrenchment plans.

The Socialist FO, backed by the Communist-controlled CGT (General Confederation of Labor) and the Christian Trades Federation brought the striking total to two million with a 24 to 48-hour walkout last Friday and Saturday.

The Red CGT called this week's outbreak, tacking on demands for general salary increases and the ouster of what it termed Laniel's "reactionary" Cabinet. Non-Communist unions were quick to support the strike calls.

Rhee Won't OK Korea Coalition

ROK Chief Raps Plan
Of Union With Reds

SEOUL (AP)—Syngman Rhee today declared South Korea will never agree to a coalition government with Communists in the North as a means of unifying Korea.

The fiery South Korean President said in an interview:
"Under no circumstances will I even listen to the suggestion of coalition with the Communists."

At the same time, Rhee reiterated that South Korea will go it alone if the impending Korean political conference fails within 90 days to solve the explosive problem of unification.

"We shall do anything we can possibly do to restore the unification of our country," the 78-year-old patriot said, adding:

"And we shall act whether friendly nations help us or not." Rhee said he felt "nothing will be accomplished" at the peace conference, scheduled to begin by Oct. 27.

"Since 1945," he said, "Americans have tried a hundred ways to come to agreement with the Communists. They have talked for two years just to stop the fighting."

The U. N. General Assembly will meet this week to select the site and makeup of the conference. Ceylon was named as a possible site.

"I cannot approve of Ceylon," Rhee said, because of its closeness to India, a nation he has labeled pro-Communist, and because of British influence in the island.

"Countries that have pro-Communist policies can be of little help to us," Rhee said, adding that he expected his main aid toward unification from the United States.

"We have endured insults from England and I have asked my government to ignore them. I do not wish under any circumstances, however, to hurt the feelings of the men of the British Commonwealth who have fought here in Korea to defend our free nation against Communist aggression."

Former Salem Man To Head Cleveland WTAM, WNBK-TV

Lloyd Yoder, a native of Salem and former All-American football player and general manager of Radio Station KNBC in San Francisco, late yesterday was named head of the Cleveland NBC radio and television operation.

Yoder will succeed Hamilton Shea as general manager of Stations WTAM and WNBK-TV in a shuffling of NBC executive personnel.

In transferring to Cleveland, Yoder returns to his native state. He was born in Salem, and his mother, two sisters and a brother live in Canton. He attended Salem High School, Mount Union College in Alliance, and Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Yoder was captain of the Carnegie Tech football team in 1926 and 1927 and was the first player from that college to be named to the all-American team.

The 1926 squad was one which achieved national fame because of its upset victory over Knute Rockne's Notre Dame team of that year.
With NBC 26 years

Since 1929, Yoder has been a football official for the Pacific Coast Conference and the Big Seven Conference.

The new WTAM-WNBK chief has been associated with NBC since his graduation from college — a total of 26 years. In that time he has been manager of Station KOA, Denver, and KNBC in San Francisco.

Lloyd Yoder

Charles R. Denny, vice - president of NBC said of the Yoder appointment:
"Cleveland will find Lloyd Yoder an enthusiastic advocate of community broadcasting and a supporter of local affairs."

"He is happy about returning to his native state and brings with him 26 years of broadcasting experience with NBC in Denver and San Francisco."

Yoder is expected to arrive in Cleveland next week sometime and will take over the managerial duties in early September.

AFL Council Votes To Expell Longshoremen

Dock Union Split On Whether To Quit Or Attempt Cleanup

CHICAGO (AP)—The beleaguered waterfront union, facing loss of its AFL affiliation, today was reported closely divided on just quitting the AFL or stringing along and hoping for the best.

The 22-man Executive Board of the International Longshoremen's Association was reported almost evenly split.

Charges that the ILA is infiltrated with racketeers and hoodlums led the AFL's Executive Council to recommend yesterday that the ILA be suspended at the AFL's convention in St. Louis starting Sept. 21.

AFL council recommendations are almost always carried out, since the council is composed of the AFL's top leaders.

The ILA group met all afternoon yesterday trying to decide what to do, and charted another huddle today. Eight of 22 ILA board members were reported to favor just pulling the union out of the AFL and assuming an independent union status.

Nine ILA board members were reported to favor trying to live up to AFL council cleanup demands and somehow to avoid AFL suspension. The five other ILA members were reported teetering between the rival ILA factions.

Joseph P. Ryan, 69-year-old boss of the ILA for the past 27 years, who holds an elected lifetime job as ILA president, tried to smooth out any idea of a rift within the ILA leadership. He said the ILA group's only thought was to speed cleanup procedures in time to avoid the imminent suspension.

Indicted For Larceny
Ryan, himself under indictment on a charge of larceny of more than $10,000 of the ILA's funds, told newsmen he had no thought of quitting the ILA helm. However, it was learned that a number of the ILA's leaders favored forcing Ryan's resignation.

Crime investigators for Congress and New York state have reported that the ILA harbored criminal elements along the New York and New Jersey piers. The ILA has said it wanted to clean up its own union affairs, but the AFL council decided yesterday the union was moving too slowly.

Among the group favoring the ILA's withdrawal from the AFL were practically all of the ILA board members from the New York harbor area.

Allied against that group were most of the ILA leaders outside the New York area. These included Frank Yeager and Walter Mayo of the Gulf Coast district; E. L.
Slaughter, Larry Long, R. A. Walton and Patrick Cullinan, of the Great Lakes district; Robert Collins of the Pacific Coast district, and Charles Lockhart of the South Atlantic district.

Late Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles warned the Communists today the United Nations will withhold "to the last" Red war prisoners charged with or convicted of crimes — to make sure the Reds return U.N. prisoners in the same category.

Had Been Ill Month Of Blood Poisoning

Frederick S. Barckhoff, 63, Salem city engineer for 26 years and who was known throughout the district as a consulting engineer, died of blood poisoning (septicemia) Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in the Cleveland Clinic.

Mr. Barckhoff, who became ill a month ago, did not become seriously ill until a week ago. He was in Salem City Hospital twice for observation and on July 29 entered the Cleveland Clinic for treatment of the blood condition.

A native of Salem, he was born July 31, 1890, the son of Carl and Cora Hawley Barckhoff, who owned the Barckhoff Organ Works, which at that time was located on Vine Ave.

Mr. Barckhoff, who was educated in Salem and Cleveland schools, had been city engineer here since June of 1927 when he was appointed to succeed B. M. French, who had died.

Mr. Barckhoff also held the position of engineer for the neighboring city of East Palestine for 30 years, and, in addition, acted as a consulting engineer to other communities including Columbiana and East Liverpool.

In his early days he worked in the engineering department of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

He was a member of the Mahoning Valley Society of Professional Engineers.

Mr. Barckhoff also was president of the Bar-Loy Company, a small local manufacturing plant no longer in existence.

As city engineer, Mr. Barckhoff was familiar with all of the city's street, sewer and water problems.
Currently he was at work on plans for the city's proposed second sewerage treatment plant.

He is survived by his wife, Ada Holmes Barckhoff, whom he married in 1914; one daughter, Mrs. Richard C. Harwood of Newport, R. I.; two sons, F. S. Barckhoff, Jr., who has been associated with his father in engineering work, and Lt. David H. Barckhoff of Otis Air Force base, Falmouth, Mass., and one granddaughter,
Nancy Harwood of Newport, R. I.

The body is at the Arbaugh Pearce funeral home, pending service arrangements.

Korea Truce Service Set For Thursday

Representatives of the Salem Ministerial Association will take part in the Korean Truce service Thursday, at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church.

People of all faiths are invited to unite in this service of intercession. The ministers remind the community "that the truce is no guarantee of peace and as a Christian nation we should bow before God in confession and ask for his mercy, especially through this crucial period."

The plan to be carried through at the service calls for prayer, with periods of adoration, confession, intercession and dedication.

Driver Unhurt When Car Upsets, Burns

A 24-year-old Berlin Center motorist escaped unhurt late Tuesday night when his auto rolled over in a roadside ditch and burned.

State highway patrolmen said the driver, Herbert Engstrom, told them he was hit by another car that knocked him off the road and into the ditch.

The mishap occurred on the Kent
Rd. about seven-tenths mile northwest of Salem at 11:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The Salem Fire Department was called, out to quench the blaze shortly before midnight, but by the time they arrived the interior of England's auto was completely burned.

Skidding Farm Prices May Bring Crop Production Control

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Skidding farm prices—set against the background of a record high cost of living—brings the whole farm problem to the fore again this week.

Wheat, cotton and corn—the big three crops from which come the nation's bread, clothing, meat, milk and eggs—are at a level of surplus which under the law can call for federal crop production controls.

Farmers income this year, the government says, is running 11 per cent behind last year.

At the grocery, however, the government reports that food prices generally are only about 2 per cent lower than last year. A rise in food prices this summer helped push the government's measure of the cost of living to an all-time high.

The farmer might be getting even less if federal price supports hadn't come to his aid. In the fiscal year ended June 30, the U. S. Treasury put out 2½ billion dollars in support money, to which all taxpayers contributed.

The government holds large stocks of grain. It expects large amounts of this year's cotton crop to move under the protection of government loans.

Butler has been a well publicized government problem. Under price supports it has bought up large tonnages of surplus butter. The price of butter has stayed so high at the stores, however, that margarine men have had little trouble in increasing the sales of their product.

Now some are suggesting that the government get rid of its butter by taking a price cut—offering it at wholesale for considerably less than it presumably will go on paying dairy farmers for fresh production.

Price breaks in the commodity markets used to be blamed on the Korean War. Peace rumors were said to frighten traders.

But with a Korean truce now an actuality, this week's sharp drop in wheat prices is being laid to fear that the farmers won't elect to come under government production regulations. If they vote against this, the price at which next year's crop will be supported by the government is automatically lowered.

Traders figure the only way wheat prices could go in that case would be down.

The stocks of wheat held by the big producers—the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia—are placed in excess of one billion bushels now. This is more than double the stocks held a year ago.

Exports of American farm products have been declining while bumper crops have been piling up.

Durkin Defends Ike Against AFL Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor Durkin has defended the Eisenhower administration against criticism by the man who is taking his place as president of the AFL Plumbers Union.

Peter T. Schoemann, acting head of the plumbers while Durkin is on leave, recently described the administration's record as a "pattern of plunder." Schoemann said it attacked organized labor's "hard won" gains, public power and housing and social security.

Durkin, a Democrat, told a news conference yesterday Schoemann's charges were not "well founded."

The secretary recalled that President Eisenhower has recommended broadening social security coverage and changing the Taft-Hartley law—both tabbed for congressional action next year.

ing the bands; and absconding with $2,000 in a San Francisco meat sale.

Dems Claim Ike Won't Acknowledge Their Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democratic Digest says President Eisenhower has been getting vital help from Democrats but "apparently does not feel that he can afford to acknowledge" it.

The party publication, in a leading article, "How Democrats Saved Ike From His Own Party," contended that Democratic cooperation has made "all the difference between success and failure for his administration."

Yet, it said, the President at times "seems to feel that he must appear to be giving the opposition a scorching in a manner that the Old Guard will approve."

The September issue is the second in the magazine's new pocket-size format.

Solons' Pension System Lauded

Congress Builds Up Surplus In Fund

WASHINGTON (AP)—Remember the "bundles for Congress" which poured in on unhappy senators and House members after they voted themselves a pension system in 1942?

The indignation was so outspoken that Congress repealed the law just six weeks after it was passed. But the lawmakers gamely tried again in 1946, enacting another pension plan for themselves as part of a general congressional reorganization in the La Follette-Monroney Act.

And the 1946 idea has worked so well, Sen. Monroney (D-Okla.) said today, that contributions to it from the legislators' salaries have totaled more than double the retirement benefits paid out.

In seven years of the program's operation, members of Congress have paid 2 1/4 million dollars into their retirement system, while one million has gone out in pension checks.

Monroney said in an interview that there was little doubt the congressional pension plan would not be actually sound except for one thing:

"We in Congress usually are extremely reluctant to retire as long as we are physically able to carry on the work."

"So, many senators and House members hold on to their seats and continue paying into the retirement fund at a time when most other men are enjoying the pensions they have built up over the years."

He didn't name any names. But a case in point might well be the oldest senator, Theodore Francis Green (D-R.I.), who will be 86 in October.

Green was first elected to the Senate at 69, well past the age when many men have retired. He already had had a long and varied career as a lawyer and businessman, and had served four years as governor of Rhode Island.

The wry, slight New Englander shows no signs of slowing down. He often walks several miles to his Capitol Hill offices, and he has traveled all over the world as a top member of the Foreign Relations Committee. Next week he will be a delegate to the United Nations Assembly.

Incidentally, Green reputedly is one of the Senate's millionaires, so a congressional pension would seem to be of academic interest to him.

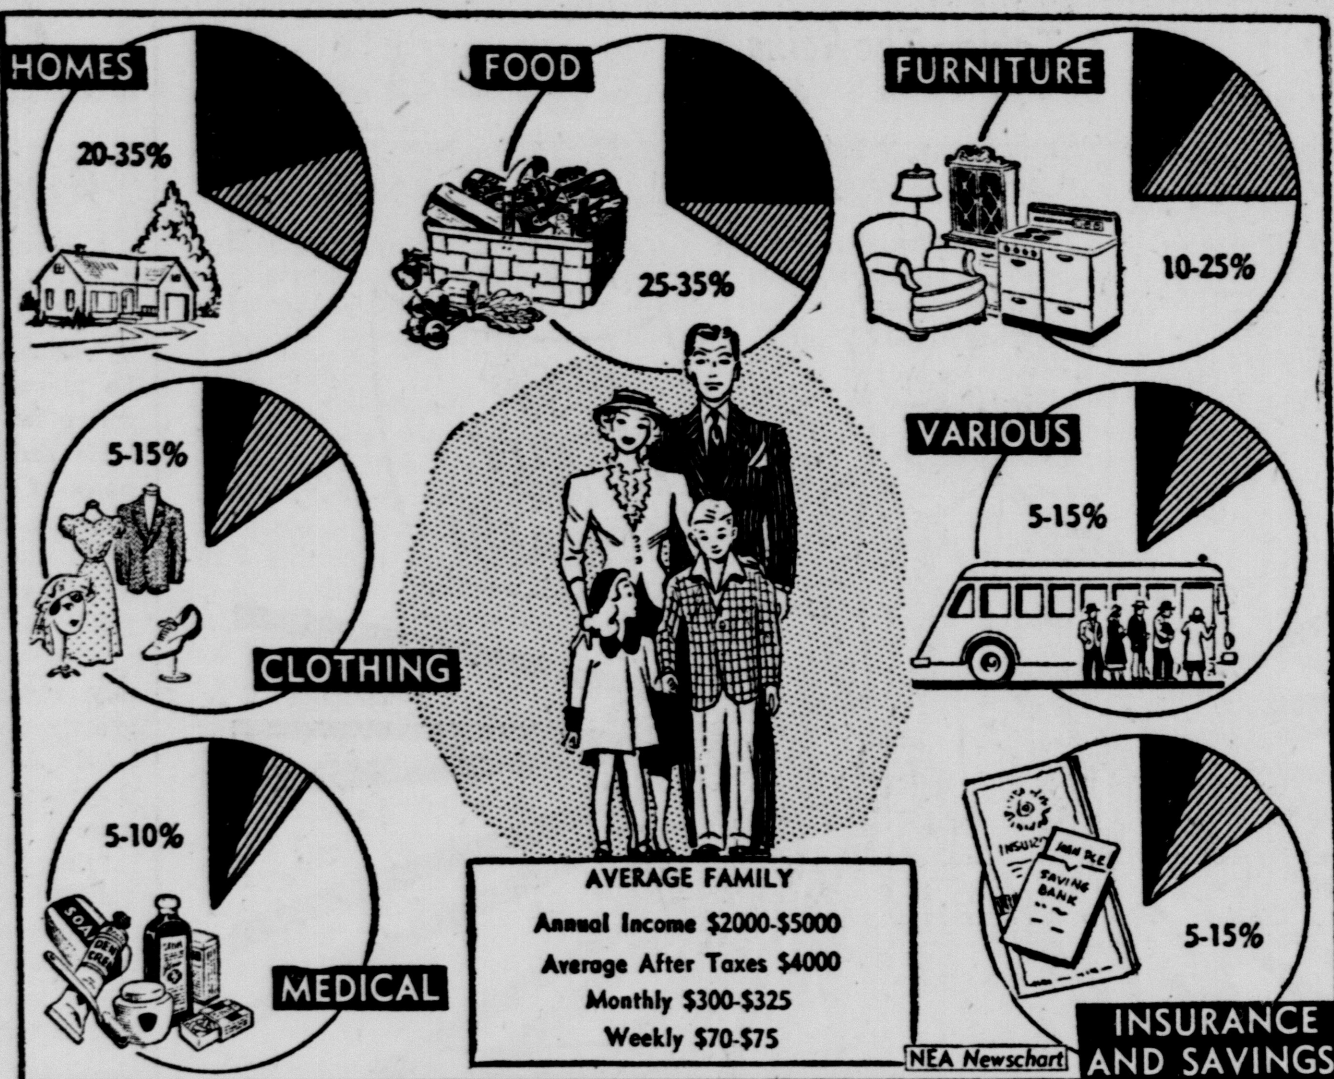

Monroney emphasized that he and the late Sen. Robert La Follette (R-Conn.) pledged in 1946 to demand bigger contributions if the retirement plan was not self-supporting.

Senate and House members contribute 6 per cent of their salaries—which are $12,500 a year—into the retirement fund.

They become eligible for benefits only if they serve six years. Benefits are figured at the rate of 2 1/2 per cent for each year of service multiplied by the average annual salary.

Members with service prior to 1946 got credit for those years if they paid into the pension fund a sum comparable to that required for similar credit under the civil service retirement system.

Biggest Crops Since 1948 Are Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP)—The biggest U. S. crops since 1948 are in prospect, the Agriculture Department reported yesterday.

But it indicated that corn production may not be so high as to require the rigid marketing controls impending for wheat and cotton next year.

The corn crop prospect was 3,330,418,000 bushels. A figure 70 million higher probably would require Secretary of Agriculture Benson to invoke marketing quotas.

Benson expressed the feeling "there will probably have to be controls" of some kind on corn. Less restrictive acreage planting allotments, and possibly marketing quotas if crop prospects go up by Nov. 15, may be ordered.

Ohio corn was forecast at 54 bushels an acre with a total crop of 190,674,000 bushels. Ohio winter wheat yield was estimated at 29 1/2 bushels an acre with a total crop of 69 million bushels; oats 42 bushels an acre and total crop 48,468,000.

Bradley To End JCS Leadership

Adm. Radford Set To Succeed General

WASHINGTON (AP)—General of the Army Omar N. Bradley's travels as top U. S. military officer — 140,000 miles and 272 times to the White House in four years—came to a halt Saturday.

That is the day Bradley, 60, gives up the chairmanship of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, which he held from the beginning of Western collective defense through the Korean War.

A five-star general never retires. But Bradley gives up all active military assignment. He will become chairman of the board of the Bulow Research and Development Laboratories, Inc.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford succeeds him as JCS chairman.

Defense Department statistics released today tersely summarized the global responsibilities Bradley carried during his service of exactly four years as the nation's first regular head of the Joint Chiefs.

Besides his trips and White House visits, they list 87 sessions on North Atlantic Treaty Organization business and other top-level military meetings and briefings running into the thousands.

His travels took him to the wide-ranging theaters where U. S. and NATO troops were stationed, to Wake Island in 1950 with then President Truman for a conference with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and to Korea last November and December with then President-elect Eisenhower.

A wholly new slate of Joint Chiefs will be in office by Monday. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway succeeds Gen. J. Lawton Collins as Army chief of staff Saturday. Gen. Nathan F. Twining already has taken over as Air Force chief of staff from Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg. The last change will be in the Navy Monday when Adm. Robert B. Carney becomes chief of naval operations, succeeding Adm. William Fechteler.

"That Makes 14 New Ones on This Street!"

In one small area in a certain American town, fourteen new Cadillacs were delivered during the early weeks of the recent spring.

One of the new owners gave a party for the other thirteen—presumably to discuss the virtues of their wonderful new cars.

We suspect it was a most congenial gathering—for Cadillac owners have many splendid things in common.

First of all—taking them by and large—they are exceptional people. For the most part, they are men and women who have held to high standards of achievement for many years. They have a common feeling for the finer things in life. And they have a sound sense of values.

But—despite what so many mistakenly believe—they are not necessarily blessed with an abundance of this world's goods. For a Cadillac is a practical car to own—and is a splendid selection for the family of moderate means.

The following established facts must surely prove this to be true:

—there are twenty-two models of other makes of American motor cars which actually cost more than the lowest-priced Cadillac!

—a Cadillac will travel many more miles on a gallon of gasoline than you could ever logically expect from a car of its size and stature!

—a Cadillac is so dependable and long-lived that it is just about as economical to service and maintain as any car you could buy!

—and, finally—according to authentic used car evaluations—a Cadillac may be expected to return a greater percentage of its cost at the time of resale than any other car built in America.

In view of all this, it is no cause for wonder that fourteen wise and practical people, residing in a single neighborhood, should have taken delivery of new Cadillacs during the fleeting weeks of a northern spring.

The wonder is that more people don't buy Cadillacs. For when a car combines so much quality and beauty and comfort and prestige—with such outstanding over-all practicality—it is a very wise choice for a very great many people.

Maybe it's the car for you. If you think it is, you are most cordially invited to come in and see us today.

Herbert Hoover At 79

Most of us were surprised to note the passing of Herbert Hoover's 79th birthday. It doesn't seem to have been a third of a century since a middle-aged Hoover with a plump, round face and a stylized high collar was ushering in the era of engineering as a food administrator.

Since then, Mr. Hoover has been involved deeply in human history as well as in the history of the United States. It is safe to guess he understands why this role has become important and is conscientiously trying to fill it to the best of his unusual ability.

He must know that for millions of human beings in this land and abroad he has become a symbol of continuity in an otherwise disjointed period of time. The fact he has lived to a ripe old age and has mellowed as the result of some of the harshest experiences which could befall a man is heartening.

Mr. Hoover and Mrs. Hoover, while she lived, abided by one principle more basic than all the others—that service to mankind is the highest destiny of men.

Their service was sometimes misunderstood. That did not deter them from performing it. In his 80th year, Herbert Hoover is going to perform still one more service for his countrymen in the field of government reorganization.

To congratulate him on his advanced age would be fatuous. Americans should congratulate one another on having men like Herbert Hoover to remind them of the importance of continuity, good temper and a sense of history in their affairs.

Secretary Of Gloomy Statistics

The text of Malenkov's two-hour speech before the Supreme Soviet reveals a mind with more on it than the announcement that the Soviet Union shares knowledge of a hydrogen bomb with the United States. That was of interest only to the rest of the world.

Malenkov, who is the Communist party's secretary of statistics, as far as the party's dictatorship in the U.S.S.R. is concerned, was thinking primarily of steel, cabbages, hosiery, shoes, wheat, cotton, electric power and oil when he addressed the Supreme Soviet. So were his listeners.

The ultimate fate of the conspiracy guided by the Kremlin will be determined by its success or failure in producing food and clothing, not international complications.

It has no better chance of maintaining itself indefinitely as a police state than the czarist regime had when it was put on the defensive by its failure to organize a self-sufficient Russian society. One day millions of disappointed people will decide it offers no hope of improvement.

Malenkov declared at one point in his lengthy recital of the state of the Soviet Union: "We must liquidate the intolerable lagging behind in the development of stockbreeding, create a firm basis for supplies of fodder, provide suitable premises for cattle and fodder, achieve a sharp increase in the productivity of stockbreeding and higher rates in the growth of numbers of cattle, particularly cows, we must overcome the lagging behind in the production of potatoes and vegetables..."

Unfortunately for the terrorists, an economic problem cannot be liquidated by shooting it in the back of the head or shipping it to the salt mines.

Canada's Best Possibility

A fifth consecutive victory for Canada's Liberals in last Monday's election is assurance of more of the kind of leadership provided by Louis St. Laurent and his predecessor in the prime ministry, W. L. Mackenzie King.

The Canadian Liberals have been in control since 1935. In the political spectrum used in the United States, they occupy about the same position as that occupied at the present time by the Eisenhower administration.

They are half way between the right and the left, a position of true moderation. To Canadian voters they represent the best possible compromise between the strongest contending factions in politics—the extreme rightists and the extreme leftists.

One thing about a Canadian election always gets a second thought and a second look from U.S. citizens interested in comparisons. The Canadian elections are not contests between individuals running for the prime ministry but contests between parties hoping to organize a government. They are not personal popularity contests.

Every Liberal candidate who won election is committed to support his party after it organizes a new government with St. Laurent in the prime ministry. A citizen south of the border—the Canadian border—can only imagine what that arrangement would mean for the United States in terms of party responsibility.

You get no place in a hurry when the only thing you are quick at is tefing tired.

When we hear of meat prices taking a drop we begin to think that maybe prosperity is just around the cowshed.

Strange Attitude

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Britain Winks At Facts Of International Life

Malenkov's speech is an uncensored version of what the top leaders in the Soviet are thinking and saying to themselves about the Western World.

Hence it is significant that the Soviet dictator should be boasting that "one of the decisive advantages" of the Communist bloc in the world situation today "and its basic difference from the imperialist camp lies in the fact that it is not rent by internal contradictions and strife."

The Soviet leaders have only to read the American press dispatches from around the world in these critical times to get a good deal of comfort out of the dissension among the governments of the so-called "free world."

Just last Saturday, for example, the United Press sent a bulletin over its wires at 4:30 p.m. declaring that the 16 United Nations members which had fought the Communist aggression in Korea "warned the Reds that they probably would have to carry the war into China itself if the Communists break the armistice."

This sounded like tough language and an evidence of Allied unity—something that might be calculated to make the Reds think twice about violating the armistice and to give Red China in particular a cause for concern.

But exactly two hours later, over the same United Press wires, came a dispatch from London telling the Reds, in effect, not to worry about the United Nations warning.

Here is how the London dispatch began:

"A Foreign Office spokesman said tonight that, in Britain's opinion, the United Nations threat to carry the war to the enemy if the Korean truce is violated doesn't imply any advance commitments to any precise course of action."

Whatever spirit of resoluteness there was in the Allied warning from United Nations headquarters in New York was thus deflated promptly. The London Foreign Office went on to say:

"When the text of the declaration (the 16-member warning) was under discussion, her majesty's government was careful to make it clear that, in their view, decisions which might have grave consequences should be taken only at the time and in full knowledge of the circumstances."

Did anybody think for a moment that her majesty's government would ever make any decisions without "full knowledge of the circumstances" existing at the time of a grave decision was being made? Then what was the purpose of the palpable effort to play down and minimize the solemn warning issued at New York in behalf of the 16 nations which had been doing the fighting in Korea?

If this were the first time the foreign office in London contradicted a firm warning issued in its behalf, it would be understandable.

The British Foreign Office evidently doesn't hesitate to throw down even the statements made by Prime Minister Churchill when he isn't in London—as happened when he assured the American Congress of Britain's intent to stand with her allies in the event that aggression were renewed in the Far East.

It is inexplicable why, in the midst of delicate situations, the British Foreign office should always inject itself in a way that must necessarily weaken the hand of the Allies as against the Communists and in effect, tell the Communists not to pay any attention to strong words that may be issued—that they really don't mean what they seem to mean.

Another example of bungling is to be noted in a dispatch from London on Monday of this week announcing that "Britain has formally put the U. S. on notice" that she will press for Red China's admission to the United Nations if the Korean peace conference is a success.

Then an outline is given of what the British would consider a "success"—namely, a pledge by the Communists for "free elections" in Korea after a three-to-five-year "neutralization" period.

This is a strange way to start out a negotiation—by telegraphing the enemy that the attitude of a principal ally, the United States, in opposing Red China's admission to the U.N. is really of no consequence.

Maybe the British officials haven't discovered the facts of international life as Congress sees it. Congress is on record as being ready to withdraw from the U.N. when Red China goes in.

Radium Contamination

By MICHAEL AMRINE

The U. S. Naval Radiological Defense Laboratory at San Francisco has revealed that, recently, 40 micrograms of a radium solution was spilled in its laboratory and the accident was not discovered until 16 hours later.

The accident itself is ironical—for the laboratory studies defense against radioactivity and instruments to detect it, and as it turned out, no one was injured and the scientists and staff gained valuable experience in tracking down contamination.

All personal effects, clothing, homes and automobiles of students working in the laboratory were decontaminated by intensive scrubbing within a few days after the spill was discovered, and they will receive periodic physical examinations to watch for any latent effects of the radiation.

Writing in Nucleonics, the leading technical magazine of atomic energy, R. K. Skow, V. V. Vandiver and F. R. Holden reported on the freak effects of contamination left around by persons who did not know at the time that they were "carriers."

In one case a divan was contaminated in the outline of the student's body where he had lain down. It was also possible to trace the footsteps of some of the students into their homes, up and down stairs.

Such radiation is measured in terms of the numbers of atoms which break up or disintegrate per minute.

The radium solution had been in a glass capsule which was unknowingly stepped on, and the initial activity from the building would produce half a million atomic disintegrations a minute from a small area.

Soles of shoes, pockets and lapels of laboratory white coats would give a reading of 200,000 disintegrations per minute when the accident was first discovered.

The shoes would give readings of 20,000 DPM and so did floor mats of automobiles students had traveled in.

The building was sealed off for three days and then a survey group in rubber boots, rubber gloves, and gas masks made their measurements. The entire building had been contaminated because the staff had walked through the hot room and then into other rooms.

In the home of one student they measured virtually everything—a pencil gave a reading of 1,500 DPM; a door knob, 1,500; a clothes brush, 1,500; a towel, 3,000; a pillow, 4,000.

All the students received a scrubbing with soap and water and citric acid where they proved to be "hot." It developed that wool clothing could not be salvaged, but cotton clothing and other washable fabrics could be laundered several times and then could be worn again.

All shoes were saved after repeated scrubbing and personal items, if they were hard-surfaced—like door knobs, steering wheels, and so forth—also came clean after treatment with germicides, detergents, and vacuum cleaning.

It was apparent from this experience that the vacuum cleaner will be exceedingly valuable to civil defense in the event of bomb radioactivity, for one recovered radium on the lab floor and it was also invaluable in the general cleaning of houses following the accident.

Porous substances, like floor mats, seat covers, carpets, pillows, etc., could not be cleaned and had to be disposed of. In the lab itself painted concrete and unpainted wood were decontaminated by heating the surfaces with an oxyacetylene torch, followed by scraping and vacuum cleaning. The surfaces were completely restored by repainting, and the building was cleaned for use again 90 days after the spill.

Fearful that some of the radium might have been breathed into lungs, from which some of it would be exhaled, intensive breath sampling of the students was made, but no evidence of injury was found.

The radioactive cleaning rags, the condemned rags, linoleum, etc., filled more than 200 drums.

These were weighted with concrete and shipped out to sea. The incident was considered closed when the drums were dropped overboard in water deeper than 100 fathoms.

Taking The Reins

Currency Must Be Stabilized

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Money is an unpleasant subject for conversation, as every husband knows. In these days of depreciating currency, it is particularly hard to explain to a wife or to children that if prices are high, it is impossible to buy as much for the same amount of money as could be done when the dollar was worth more.

Simple truths sometimes are most difficult to deal with because they run counter to pressing desires.

It has become popular among certain of our citizens to make a distinction between money and human values, they forgetting all the time that nearly all human benefits have to be supported by money.

FOR INSTANCE, it is correct to say that every citizen should have access to hospitalization, but hospitals must have the money to operate, whether the money comes from federal, state or municipal funds, that is, from the taxpayer, or from private charity.

When the currency is depreciated, it costs more to operate these institutions.

Sen. Kerr of Oklahoma has his own ideas on the subject. I recently read a broadcast he made on "Facts Forum," in response to the question: "Are the fiscal policies of the Eisenhower administration good for our economy?"

Sen. Kerr replied that the fiscal policies of the Eisenhower administration are bad because they are designed to restore the value of the dollar.

HE PUTS it this way: "The Republicans have always put the premium on the dollar. The Democrats have always put the premium on the value of labor, on the value of the products of the soil, on the value of the products of the mines. The only way you can make the value of the dollar greater is to make the value of these other things less."

The senator misses the point. In this connection, I should like to cite an experience that I had with money.

Back in August, 1917, I was in Petrograd and when I saw that the value of the ruble was going down, I hedged against inflation.

I AMASSED a quantity of paper rubles, the nominal value of which was $1,500,000; the actual value, after the Bolshevik Revolution, was anything you could get—perhaps $5,000 or $6,000. Who knows? Exchange was forbidden.

When I reached Harbin in March, 1918, and needed some cash to send a cable to my parents in New York, notifying them that I was alive, my vast accumulation of rubles was worth $11. After I sent the cable, I was flat broke.

When the currency of a country depreciates, the wages of labor, the return to the farmer for his produce, the payment to the storekeeper for his wares, become fictitious. Men live by barter.

In those days, I owned one chocolate bar, which cost one nickel. I shaved off thin slices with a safety razor and no one in this country, who has not lived through such a period, can imagine what value a thin slice of chocolate can have when money has lost its value.

AMERICAN soldiers in Europe

during the World War II had the same type of experience with cigarettes.

It is of the utmost importance to keep currency stabilized. Sen. Kerr believes that last year the American dollar was reasonably stabilized. Its value then, in purchasing power, was 53 cents.

The ordinary man on the street knows as much about his own money as the economists.

The housewife knows the difference between the same hamburger at 96 cents, 69 cents, or 39 cents a pound. To her, the 96 cents hamburger means that she cannot buy something else that she needs or maybe she will only buy one pound instead of two.

OUT-OF-POCKET economics is very realistic to the person who has to buy.

Whether the Eisenhower administration can succeed in increasing the value of the dollar is to be seen, but everybody would be better off if the dollar bought more.

The farmer does not only sell wheat and eggs, etc.; he also buys canned goods, machinery, millinery and sends his son to college.

He is not only a seller but a buyer.

His medium of exchange has to go both ways. Unless his currency has value and stability, he can be caught in an economic squeeze.

The same is true of labor, of the retail storekeeper, of the miner, of everybody.

Something For Sundays

By TRUMAN TWILL

It says here in a press agent's blurb that National Dog Week starts Sept. 20. That's Sunday.

On that Sunday morning, God willing, I'll get out of bed a little later than usual for the beginning of my day off. On the other hand, I'll get out a little earlier than I'll want to because it will be the beginning of Dog Day at our house.

No one knows how our three dogs can tell when it's Sunday. But they never make a mistake. They put on the Sunday pressure at the first stirring of household activity and never let up until things simmer down again on Sunday night.

They help with shoe strings and beg for toast. They tremble with anticipation of the first going out of doors, to walk down to the lane to pick up the Sunday paper.

No matter what the weather happens to be, they are inseparable companions of the head man all day. On snowy, blustery afternoons in midwinter, they curl up in the snow on the leeward side of a brush fire.

On humid days in July, they stretch out in the cool shade of a bush. While they never lack attention during the week, Sunday is their special day.

Last Sunday, we built a manger for the sheep to eat out of next winter, the four of us. We sawed and nailed up a contraption suitable for two dozen woolies to eat from, side by side.

Every step of the project was superintended thoughtfully by the Irish setter, boss of the works. The Dalmatian, a skittish character, was in and out of the barn on endless errands. The spaniel sat, gravely, to make sure nothing appeared or disappeared without her knowledge.

For good measure last Sunday there also was a fourth dog on hand, a journeyman mutt with a tousled head of hair and eyes that winkled behind a shaggy forelock. When I was a child I was deathly afraid of dogs. I did not understand them. They always seemed to be intent on biting me or scaring me. I grew up with no knowledge of dogs or liking for them, with the exception of the one dog I had been permitted to have a couple of months—a Boston bull terrier. I liked her because she was mine, but I didn't understand her.

When I was grown up, the gulf was still there. Attempts to get on a sound footing with these most companionable members of the animal kingdom always failed.

Then came the first chance to do it the right way. Our household acquired a pup, the spaniel previously mentioned. She taught our whole family how to get along with dogs, in her infinite wisdom and cheerfulness.

After that, it was easy. Maybe too easy. There are times when the Twillery must give the impression of overflowing with sticky sentimentality about dogs. It's because the head man and perhaps some of the other inmates are making up lost time.

National Dog Week isn't until Sept. 20. It's silly to have a week for something that goes on 365 days a year if it's worth doing at all. Except that Sept. 20 would be a good time to start breaking in a new pup, to brighten up Sundays if your house needs brightening.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Good Samaritan U.S.S.R. Style

A certain Samaritan, as he journeyed from Jerusalem to Jericho, came upon a stranger lying hungry and exhausted. And he was moved by compassion. Dismounting from his own beast he placed the stranger upon it to carry him where he might be fed.

He had proceeded a few steps when a company of soldiers bore down on him in great anger, and they knocked the stranger from the beast and fell upon the Samaritan. "We are arresting this man who has accepted help from you," said the soldiers.

"But why? He is in sore need. He requires pity and sustenance," said the Samaritan, greatly puzzled.

"He can't have pity and sustenance unless they are the certified Russian type," said the men.

"But pity and good will are universal impulses," said the Samaritan.

"You talk like a member of the British-American bloc," said a captain of the troop. "If a man needs good will around here he had better be sure it is Russian."

"This is a new concept in human relations," the good Samaritan said. "Surely there must be some mistake."

One of the men thereupon shot his donkey and the Samaritan demanded "Why this brutal action toward a beast?"

"The beast was a tool of capitalistic interests," a soldier explained.

"It is also a warmonger. One side, while we arrest your hungry friend! He took help from you and an example must be made of him."

"He is weak and starving. He was not conscious of any wrong-doing in accepting my aid," said the Samaritan.

"He should have read Pravda and kept informed," said a soldier, who, noticing that the donkey stirred, shot it a second time.

"Why the unnecessary brutality?" demanded the Samaritan. "The animal is in no way to blame."

"The beast is involved and automatically becomes a conspirator, a spy and a party to a plan to injure the U.S.S.R.," said a soldier. "Hold out your hands for the shackles!"

"Why arrest me? I have done nothing but show compassion," said the Samaritan.

"Your compassion has not been approved by the Presidium, and you are using a kindly instinct which has not been passed on favorably by the Kremlin," was the reply.

"Come, let us all behave like human beings. Let us feed and succor this starving man at my expense. A good deed will have been done and nobody will be the worse for it," urged the Samaritan.

This was too much. "We are arresting you, too," said a soldier, putting a third slug into the donkey. "The concentration camp awaits. Come!"

"But the road to Jericho? Is this not it?" asked the Samaritan, now greatly bewildered.

"There is no road to Jericho," laughed the captain. "The U.S.S.R. has vetoed it," the captain announced.

Health To You

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
The Doctor Answers

Q—What can you say about planter warts. Are they contagious?
A—The exact cause of planter warts is poorly understood. They are not contagious, apparently, even though they may be caused by a virus.

Treatment usually is necessary, but it is difficult since these warts, probably because of the constant pressure on them, are harder to cure than warts in almost any other location.
On the whole, probably the most effective treatment is to use irradiation, either with X-Rays or radium, though such treatment must be given with the greatest care. Surgery has sometimes been used with success.

Q—Please discuss so-called Trichomonas infections: what can be done for them. Reader.

A—The cause of Trichomonas infections is a tiny animal parasite which afflicts particularly the lower genital tract of women and is also found in the bladder and other genital parts of men. It thrives in acid secretions, and the various treatments which are used to try to kill the parasite also often include attempts to change the acid secretion to one in which the parasite grows less well.

The exact technical aspects of the treatment must be left to the physician in charge, but regardless of what is used, it requires the complete cooperation of the patient for a long period of time.
Q—My 28-month-old girl pulls her hair out. The hair grows back in but she goes all over the head again and starts doing it again. Is there a cure or something I can do? Mrs. W.T.F.

A—This sounds like a habit which the child will in all probability, outgrow. It is a peculiar nervous reaction of some kind and probably about all you can do is keep the child as calm as possible and not pay too much attention to this activity. If she can be interested in other things, she may give up her hairpulling.

Q—If a person dies with cancer and it is unknown at the time, would it be contracted by another sleeping on the same mattress? Reader.

A—No.
Q—Would drinking one quart of milk daily cause constipation in an adult? L.B.C.

A—Milk contains little bulk, but would not of itself cause constipation.
Q—Is it possible for a person to survive after an operation for brain tumor? Mrs. E.S.

A—Yes, indeed. This happens with increasing frequency, thanks to the excellent methods of surgery on the brain devised by our neurosurgeons.

Q—Recently, I heard of some people who have been given reducing pills containing the eggs of tapeworms. One girl I know left two of these pills near a sunny window and in a few days the eggs hatched. How can manufacturers get away with this?

A—This is really a wild story. I do not believe that any manufacturer ever put reducing pills on the market containing tapeworm eggs. What was in the pills is anybody's guess, but what probably happened is that the two pills placed in the sun became contaminated from something else while they were lying in the open.

Marian Clark, Alvin Cocos Wed In Minerva Saturday

A Salem man and a Minerva girl exchanged marriage vows in a double ring ceremony performed Saturday at 2:30 p.m. in St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Minerva.

Rev. Stange A. Scott, church pastor, officiated in the service which united Miss Marian Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Clark of RD 1, Minerva, and Alvin J. Cocos, son of Mrs. Lawrence Hoyle of Salem and James Cocos of Akron.

Roy Clark gave his sister in marriage at the altar where palms and white gladioli were lighted by tall tapers in candelabra.

Forest Kail, church organist, played the nuptial melodies and was accompanist for Miss Virginia Mowls of Minerva who sang, "At Dawning," "I Love You Truly," and "Always." Miss Mowls sang the "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the close of the service.

Rhinestone earrings and necklace, the bridegroom's gift, and a bride's bouquet of white gladioli and white roses complemented the bride's ballerina gown of white lace. Her veil was fingertip length. Miss Beatrice Clark of Minerva was her sister's maid of honor. She carried pink gladioli to contrast with her gown of blue taffeta and net.

The two bridesmaids, Mrs. Robert Clark of Kensington, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Nancy Casey of Youngstown, cousin of the bridegroom, both were gowned in blue taffeta and net. They carried yellow gladioli.

Jeanne Ellen and Barbara Kay Clark of Minerva, nieces of the bride, were flower girls in matching dresses of yellow taffeta and net. Their flowers were yellow gladioli.

Thomas Casey of Youngstown, a cousin of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. Serving his cousin as best man was Donald Hoyle of Warren. Ushers were Robert Clark of Kensington, brother of the bride, and Lloyd Casey of Youngstown, cousin of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Clark attended her daughter's wedding in a dress of black and white silk with accessories to match. She wore camellias in her corsage. Mrs. Hoyle, in navy sheer, used navy and white accessories and a corsage of orchids.

People from Salem, Youngstown, Warren, Akron, Canton, Kensington, and Minerva, were welcomed by the newlyweds at the reception in the church parlors following the wedding.

A four-tiered wedding cake was served the guests by Mrs. Wayne Geiselman, sister of the bride. Other guests assisted were Mrs. Roy Clark, Miss Nina Clark, and Mrs. Jack Warlturf.

Mrs. Cocos, a graduate of Minerva High School, is employed at the Minerva Food Market there. Her husband was graduated from Salem High School and is an employee of the Mullins Manufacturing Corp. in Salem.

The couple did not disclose their honeymoon destination when they left on a week's motor trip. The bride traveled in a black and white nylon dress with black and white accessories. They will return to make their home in the Biggins Apartment on East Lincoln Way, Minerva.

Mt. Nebo Grange Bestows Degrees

Master Ernest Tullis presided when members of Mt. Nebo Grange met recently. First and second degrees were received by one candidate. The sewing contest was postponed until Aug. 12.

Discussion was held by the group on "Re-evaluation of the Farm Program."

For the juvenile program, the poem "Did Christ Have a Little Black Dog?" was read. The girls answered to "What I Can Do To Help Mother," and the boys gave "Things I Can Do To Help Father." Roll call was answered with safety suggestions.

Annual inspection will be made Aug. 12 by Roger Stafford, deputy master.

Joanna Smith Becomes Bride In Leetonia Military Wedding

A romance which began in August, 1950, when both were attached to the School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Field, San Antonio, Texas, was climaxed at Leetonia's first military wedding Saturday at 12 noon in St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

A.I.C. Joanna J. Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smith of Leetonia was united in marriage with 2nd Lt. James C. Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rogers, Sr., Moxee City, Wash. Rev. Fr. William W. Maund officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with white gladioli.

Miss Birdie Brady, church organist, played the traditional wedding marches and accompanied the Girls Choir when they sang "On This Day, Oh Beautiful Mother." Six members of the Joe Williams Post of Leetonia in service uniforms, who served as honor guards, were Louis Guido, Henry Mowery, Carmen Ferry, Anthony Gabriel, Cyril Lees and Alfred Morelli.

Miss Patricia Skinner was maid of honor. 2nd Lt. Thomas Powers of Reading, Pa. was best man and Glenn Smith, brother of the bride and Richard Gibson of Leetonia were ushers.

Four-year-old Leanna Dermotta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dermotta of Washingtonville, was flower girl, and three-year-old James DeJane, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James DeJane of Washingtonville, was ring bearer.

During the processional, three of the honor guard escorted the ring bearer, best man and bridegroom, in military uniforms, down the right side of the church. At the same time three other honor guards escorted the flower girl, maid of honor and bride down the center aisle. Both lines of process on met at the front of the church where the six honor guards formed an arch with bayonets under which the wedding party passed to the altar. The same arch was formed as the bridal party left the church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father wore a ballerina gown designed of nylon tulle and French imported Chantilly lace over satin. The lace bodice was fitted and the lace was repeated in apron effect over the skirt of nylon net. Her elbow-length veil of French illusion was attached to a Juliet cap of lace outlined with seed pearls. The Colonial bouquet she carried contained pink and white carnations. She wore a double choker of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom, and carried a linen handkerchief edged with lovers knots, fitted to her by her aunt, Mrs. Iris DeJane, of Washingtonville.

Miss Skinner wore a white strapless ballerina gown of nylon net and lace. A lace caplet, elbow length net mitts and crownless net head band with white flowers completed her costume. She carried a Colonial bouquet of cerise and orchid gladioli.

Leanna Dermotta wore an orchid-colored ruffled ballerina gown and carried a basket of mixed flowers. The ring bearer, in a replica of Lt. Rogers service uniform, carried the rings on a satin pillow. Both the flower girl and ring bearer are cousins of the bride.

The bride's mother wore navy with white accessories and corsage of salmon colored gladioli. Mrs. Virginia Smith, paternal grandmother, wore a blue and white dress.

Game prizes went to George Esterly, Tyrone Enders, Leslie Linger and Margie Todd. The honoree was remembered with gifts.

Mrs. Mitchell was assisted by her daughter, Bonnie Lou.

Leila Oertel, Joseph Deagan Exchange Vows At St. Pauls

Miss Leila Jane Oertel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Oertel of MC 1, Salem, and Joseph William Deagan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Deagan of 1220 E. 3rd St., pledged their marriage vows this morning in St. Paul Church.

The Very Rev. C. M. Fisher, V.P. of Chicago, cousin of the bride, groom, officiated at the double ring ceremony. A cousin of the bride, Miss Charlotte Cranz of Akron, was soloist. Her selections were "Mother Beloved" and "Pans Angelicus."

Fashioned with a boat neckline, fitted bodice and ballerina skirt, the bride's gown of white lace was worn over white taffeta. Her waist length veil of tulle fell from a Juliet cap outlined with seed pearls. She wore her maternal grandmother's cameo brooch. Her fan-shaped wedding bouquet of white pompons, gypsophila and stephanotis was showered with streamers, and was centered with a pure white orchid.

Mr. Oertel escorted his daughter to the altar where sheffleras fol-lage made an attractive background for the two vases of pure white gladioli and white asters.

Miss Patricia Offret of Akron, maid of honor, wore a dress of blue lace over white taffeta, patterned like the bride's. Junior bridesmaid was Celia Oertel, sister of the bride. Her gown of pink lace over pink taffeta was designed with a square neck and ballerina skirt. Their colonial bouquets of varicolored asters, blue delphinium and gypsophila were showered with satin streamers.

Joseph Riley of Canton, served as his cousin's best man. Ushers were John Deagan, brother of the bridegroom, and William Potts.

The bride's mother was attired in navy blue lace over pink taffeta, and the bridegroom's mother wore white tulle. Both used navy accessories and wore white beaded corsages of yellow pompons.

A wedding breakfast was served to the immediate families and the wedding party at the home of Mrs.

Mrs. Joseph Deagan

Fred Hall of East 4th St. The centerpiece, a gift from the bride's uncle, Brooke Oertel of Cuyahoga Falls, was an arrangement of blue delphinium and pink sheathheart roses.

The bride's parents were hosts at an open house reception at their Damascus Rd. home this afternoon. Over 100 guests from Salem, Columbus, Cincinnati, Akron, Cuyahoga Falls, Parma, Youngstown, Canton, and Baltimore attended.

A hand made cut-work linen cloth graced the table where a three-tier wedding cake and crystal punch bowl shared the limelight with the floral centerpiece used at the wedding breakfast.

Serving the guests were the bride's three cousins, Miss Cranz, and Misses Betty and Jean Oertel of Cuyahoga Falls.

The newlyweds were graduated from Salem High School, and Mrs. Deagan, who has been a floor supervisor at the Salem City Hospital for more than a year, is a graduate of the City Hospital School of Nursing at Akron. Her husband is a student at St. Vincent College at Latrobe, Pa.

After a honeymoon trip through the northeastern states, the couple will reside at 1220 E. 3rd St. until school resumes in September. Then they will make their home in Latrobe.

For her going away outfit, the new Mrs. Deagan wore a two-piece beige suit of nylon and orlon, and used white accessories. She complemented her ensemble with the white orchid from her wedding bouquet.

Atomic Plant Begins To Mushroom

8,800 Workers Push Ahead On Ohio's Vital Defense Plant

Editor's note: What happens when a rural area suddenly goes industrial? The Portsmouth-Chillicothe "critical defense area" has been finding out in the year which has elapsed since the Atomic Energy Commission decided to build a 1 1/2-billion-dollar plant in Pike County. Here is the up-to-the-minute story, prepared by the staff of the Portsmouth Times.

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Like the atomic bomb itself, the big atomic energy plant in nearby Pike County is beginning to mushroom.

On the first anniversary of the Atomic Energy Commission's new Portsmouth area, here's the situation:

Employment has skyrocketed from zero to 8,800 workers.

What once was rolling farm land now has become a beehive as construction workers swarm over the 3,700 acres where the $1,219,000,000 gaseous diffusion plant is going up.

And, outside the atomic plant area itself, small cities of trailers have sprung up, new homes by the scores have emerged, scores of new business buildings have been built and traffic has boomed in the four-county Portsmouth-Chillicothe "critical defense area."

It was on the morning of Aug. 12, 1952, that the AEC announced at Washington establishment of its new Portsmouth area as the site for its new Ohio Valley plant for the manufacture of uranium-235.

A tract of farmland in sparsely populated Pike County, just 18 miles north of Portsmouth, was selected. The AEC set up a new "Portsmouth Area" and placed in charge a veteran of Oak Ridge, Tenn., Paducah, Ky., and Dayton, Ohio—Kenneth A. Dunbar.

Dunbar and a handful of assistants moved in along with George Holling, manager for Peter Kiewit Sons' Co. of Omaha, Neb., which was awarded the general construction contract.

Using a hotel bedroom as their "office," the executives began to move. U. S. Army Engineers began acquiring the Pike County land from its owners and Dunbar and Holling began bringing in engineers, subcontractors, draftsmen, clerical help and experts of all kinds to begin work on the vast project.

Now, at the end of the first year of a scheduled five-year construction project, 500 workers are employed elsewhere on design work in addition to the 8,800 construction workers at the plant site.

For the first 10 months the payroll at the site exceeded nine million dollars. This does not include jump-sum contractors of architect-engineers.

As of July 28, the Kiewit Co. had awarded 191 subcontracts totaling $96,846,000. These included 51 construction contracts totaling $46,107,000 and 140 contracts for materials totaling $50,739,000.

So many changes have been made in the once-peaceful Pike County landscape that old-time residents of the area would have difficulty finding their old home sites today.

Old farm roads and fence rows have been obliterated. Bulldozers and power shovels have leveled the vast site.

Scores of temporary buildings have been completed and work is moving along on the permanent structures. Ironworkers are swarming over the framework of the process buildings.

Goodyear Atomic Corp., a new subsidiary of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. at Akron, has set up a training school for its employees who will operate the big plant when production begins on the uranium-235.

Magnitude of the plant is revealed by the quantities of materials and labor required.

An AEC statistician figured it would take 100,000 cars of a single train to haul all of the materials, making a procession 814 miles long.

The floor area of the plant will total 9,680,000 square feet, or 222 acres, plus a million square feet of temporary building floor space.

More than 14,000 engineering drawings are required—enough to cover 2 1/2 acres.

Materials and equipment which eventually will go in the plant will cost an estimated 690 million dollars. It will require 87,000 instruments.

When it's finished there will be 3,300,000 cubic yards of excavation, 1,100,000 cubic yards of backfill, 425,000 tons of structural steel, 4,750 tons of railway rails, 595 miles of pipe, 1,065 miles of copper tubing, 4,600 miles of electric wiring, 590,000 feet of welding and 2 1/2 million sacks of cement.

To put the multi-million-dollar plant together will require an estimated 145 million man-hours.

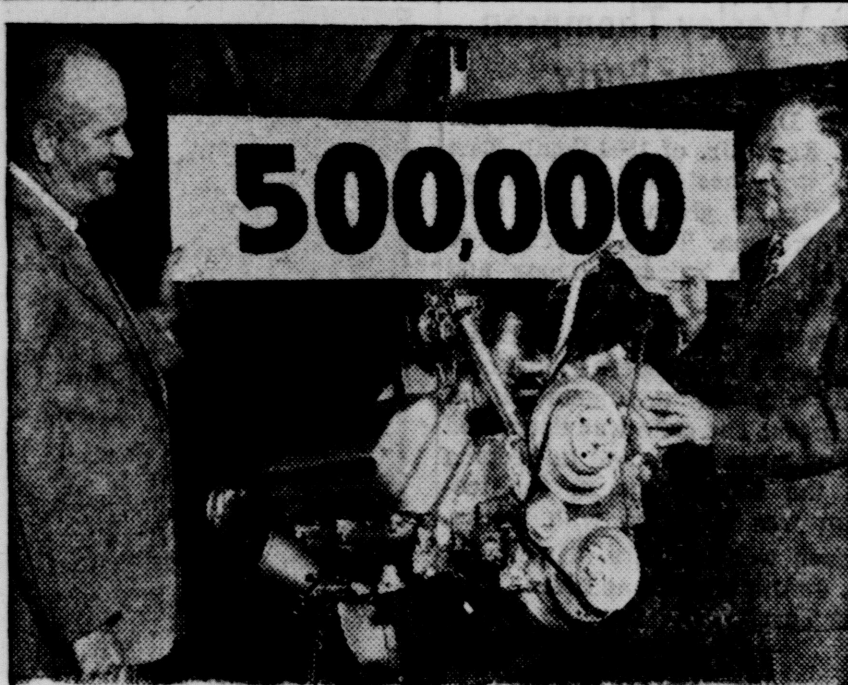

At the peak of construction, AEC estimates around 30,000 workers will be employed for a short time. Average employment is estimated at 17,000.

The employment roster will continue to climb from today's 8,800 to a peak about late 1954, then begin to fall off on the same charted curve as it is going up.

When construction is completed, Goodyear expects to have about 4,000 permanent employees operating the complicated gaseous diffusion process from which the raw material—uranium hexafluoride—is transformed into fissionable uranium-235 for use in atomic bombs.

Meanwhile, as the four-county area's population soars, retail sales are leading the state in percentages of increase.

Little Pike County, which previously had only a little more than a few filling stations and general service stores in its mercantile structure, is topping the state in percentage of retail gain. Its increase over a year ago has been more than 100 per cent.

Jackson County, another rural county east of the plant site, has been booming up at around 52 per cent.

Scioto County, most populous in the area with Portsmouth as its seat, has gained 34 per cent in retail sales. Ross County, the next biggest, where Chillicothe is located, has gone up 27 per cent.

Portsmouth has weathered the first year without too much displacement. But many here expect to find the second year a bit more difficult.

Bank and building and loan figures here show people not only are spending more but saving more, too. Bank debits—which reflect the rate of spending—are up 33.9 per cent over a year ago.

But savings deposits now total $50,461,567, compared with $44,286,104.

Postal receipts are up 16.6 per cent, sales tax collections up 51.1 per cent, building permits up 216.5 per cent, electric meters up 5.9 per cent, gas meters up 0.9 per cent, water pumpage up 4.4 per cent, telephones up 4.9 per cent, auto titles up 19.7 per cent and freight carloadings up 57.8 per cent.

Portsmouth and Scioto County have lagged behind the others in new housing construction, but several new developments are on the drawing boards for fall.

Chillicothe was in the best position to take immediate advantage of the cry for new houses. The Brewer Heights addition just outside Chillicothe was ready to go a year ago. Soon new houses were going up.

Now many of the top AEC and Goodyear executives are living in Brewer Heights homes.

Pike County will bear the brunt of the expansion in school enrollment. County Supt. J. E. Way expects an increase of 300 to 400 pupils by September. He is looking for federal aid for erecting temporary buildings to house construction workers' youngsters in class.

Churches in all four counties—Scioto, Ross, Pike and Jackson—have gone together to put in two "mobile churches" in trailers and have set up "visitation committees" to call on newcomers and welcome them to services.

United community defense services was on the scene early to organize recreation facilities. Un-been comparatively free of labor difficulties.

The most serious work stoppage was a five-week carpenters' strike last spring. The walkout did not keep other crafts off the job, but caused a serious temporary delay in the pace of construction.

Earlier a strike of electricians over travel pay lasted several days, and later this summer gravel truck haulers quit for two days. Most amazing statistic for the construction has been the success of the safety program. Despite the thousands of man-hours already gone by, only one worker has been killed and only a few have been injured seriously.

AEC and Kiewit officials believe their emphatic safety program has paid off. For the first six months of 1953 they reported their accident frequency rate was 1.45 per million man-hours worked. The nationwide AEC average has been 2.64, and the construction industry's average is 17.34.

Teacher Jumped 3 Stories To Freedom

Russian Woman Marks Fifth Anniversary Of Liberty

NEW YORK (AP)—Five years ago today a Russian schoolteacher crawled out on a ledge of the Soviet consulate in New York and leaped to freedom.

Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina, whose plunge made headlines around the world, will mark the event with a dual celebration.

First, she will go to a church near her home in Jackson Heights to offer thanks on the fifth anniversary of her escape.

Then she'll return to her second-floor apartment to drink a toast marking the successful conclusion of her own personal "five-year-plan" to achieve Americanization. "There will be no vodka," said the 57-year-old former teacher. "Maybe just some pretzels and beer."

Mrs. Kasenkina, who leaped from a three-story window to avoid being returned to Russia, said she will tolerate no reminders of her Soviet past.

"It's a special day," she said. "I feel like an American and want to act like one."

"When I first moved to this neighborhood, I was nervous and afraid. I never left the house alone. I spoke through interpreters. Life was empty. I had broken with my past and there was nothing to fill the void.

"Today I have been without interpreters for two years now. I drive my car to the supermarket every day and chat with the other women. I do not jump every time the telephone rings."

The venetian blinds in Mrs. Kasenkina's 4½ room apartment are open wide in the daytime. A special police siren once kept at her bedside is now gathering dust in a hall closet.

Mrs. Kasenkina speaks English slowly. Her conversation is in a halting Russian accent, but she has no trouble making herself understood.

Her weekly schedule is full. A few days a week an English teacher drops in to polish up her vocabulary. In spare time she paints.

The living room walls are covered with landscapes and religious paintings, all her own work.

She lives on royalties from a book, occasional painting sales and private funds.

She says she is already experienced.

encing "so much happiness it is too much for me to believe."

But she will pray for a few other things when she goes to church.

She will pray that the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service will hurry her citizenship examination. She took out first papers nearly two years ago.

Then she will ask for the continued good health of her sister Eugenia, a nurse in England.

Eugenia is the only member of her family still alive, and has promised to join Mrs. Kasenkina in America.

But her most fervent prayers will be on behalf of America and its people, who "saved my life when they gave me sanctuary. I will never forget."

Alaska City Suffers From Ice Shortage

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—This northernmost American city, only 133 miles from the Arctic Circle, is suffering from an ice shortage.

To fill the gap—and the city's tinkling highball glasses—ice is being dynamited by the ton from an interior Alaska glacier (estimated age: 18 million years) and trucked 300 miles to the city.

Harvesting the ancient ice is a dynamite and bulldozer proposition. W.D. Fitzgerald, the city's ice house tycoon, took a boiler to the scene to thaw holes in Worthington Glacier. Dynamite blasts are set in the holes, a bulldozer scoops up the scattered chunks and they are sawed into blocks of from 50 to 500 pounds each for trucking.

The sub-arctic ice problem began developing back in April. Spring came early—and warmly. The usual ice supply is cut from frozen ponds outside the city. But of the 1,000 tons of ice cut from the ponds this year, only about 600 tons were salvaged by summer time. The short supply combined with an exceptionally warm summer to empty the ice house.

There's a premium on the long-haul, old-age ice. The price has jumped from the usual $2.30 per 100 pounds to $3 per 100 pounds. But that 18 million-year-old stuff has been proving mighty popular in the spots where folks pull up a high stool on a warm day.

Convict Gives Self Up After 34 Years, Freed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—George Austin, the convict who gave himself up after almost 34 "miserable" years as a fugitive, will be an ex-convict Friday.

He said he came back to Missouri's penitentiary last May 27 to complete his prison term and "get right with the Lord." Now, the 59-year-old itinerant photographer says, he is right and he's going to stay that way. He will leave prison on parole.

He was originally sentenced for armed robbery.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

Want to know why the Italian Communist party can continue to roll up votes and have a strong voice in the government despite comparative prosperity and a half billion dollars in aid from the U.S.?

The Reds organize for the revolution. They don't try to sell an idea. To the contrary. When the Communist-controlled General Confederation of Labor began to sell an idea and became absorbed in labor work, its leaders were bawled out by party chiefs for wasting too much time.

The Communist union officials were called to a party conference in Milan and told bluntly:

"You have too much trade union mentality and are worrying too much about improving the economic conditions of Italian workers while ignoring the political objectives of the Communist party."

Sitting in the background was the Soviet Secret Police official Palmiro Togliatti, leader of the Italian Communist party. The speaker was Senator Giuseppe Albertini, a topflight comrade.

The Communists in Italy, as elsewhere on the continent, never let their own people swerve from their Soviet-set organizing schedule.

Thus the Italian Communist party had over 55,000 cells, 10,000 section groups and 96 regional federations operating during the recent election.

The party itself has 2,500,000 members. Of these 400,000 are husky young Communist leaguers Communist Youth Federation. It decisively controls the majority of unionized industrial and farm workers — thus reaching even into the backward country districts.

CLOSELY allied with it is Pietro Nenni's left-wing Socialist party, which has over 700,000 members. Which shows a new low in gratitude.

During the war, when Nenni was in exile, he was kept alive by labor contributions, much of which came from America. Then he returned to Italy and joined with the sovieters, through his rump Socialist group.

Nothing is left to chance by the Communist party. Its provincial organizations actually publish 48 weekly newspapers giving the line and round of duties to its people from the tip of the boot to the Alps.

Every one of these sheets has a column called "Party Life." And brother, if you're in the party and haven't done your duty by it that week your shortcomings are criticized. And that's not too healthy for long.

EACH SECTION has an "Agitation Center," equipped right down to movie projectors. Not too long ago, the party here drew praise from the Comintern for showing film shorts especially produced by the Communist movie studio people.

The villain of these shorts was guess who? That's right. That old devil, U.S. The story line showed the "evils" of Italy's participation in the European Defense Community (NATO).

After the movies there were talks on the functions of the "Agitation Centers" in the election campaign with special emphasis on door-to-door soliciting of the women's vote.

This is the kind of organization which keeps them in control of the Italian labor movement.

IN TURN, control of labor gives them complete power over some of Italy's biggest cities and right into the national government.

For labor is the backbone of this machine. Especially industrial labor. That's where the activists come from. That's why labor is the primary target of the Communist party here and elsewhere.

As described by an observer here: "This is not a sentimental or even primarily ideological preference derived from the Marxian

CARNIVAL By Turner

NEW YORK (AP)—A baby is the greatest teacher in the world.

He starts where the big-domed professors and philosophers leave off. Socrates, one of the wisest men in history, used to get his students to think about life by asking them questions.

A baby has Socrates beat all hollow. It simply puts its arms around you and you have the answer to life... and there are no questions or doubts left.

Even the Bible can't teach as well as a baby. The Bible says you find your life by losing it and that it is more blessed to give than to receive. These are great words... but they are still only words to many people.

A baby doesn't say such things to you. But the blind trust one of these squirming bundles of helplessness places in you teaches you the Biblical truths more surely than would a thousand sermons.

The hand that rocks the cradle doesn't rule the world. It is run by the soft little tyrant in the bassinet, the autocrat in the cradle.

My wife and I, after nearly 10 years of childless marriage, recently were given for a time the care and feeding of an infant lady of five weeks.

She is variously known as "MaMaMa X," "Little Jughead," "The Princess," and "The Fountain."

I must say that at first sight she looked like a 100-year-old toothless woman who had been sprinkled with magic power and shrunk to the size of a shrimp.

But in 15 days she has suddenly blossomed into a thing of beauty and a joy forever. She has everything Helen of Troy or Cleopatra had except hair and teeth.

In those 15 days she has taught me more of the terror and loveliness of living than 42 previous years of war and peace. When I think of the possibility of her leaving us it is like the thought of dying. My wife, Frances, feels the same way.

"I wouldn't trade four of your's for one of this baby's little toes," she said. And we count her toes 10 times a day to be sure none gets lost.

We took her to a pediatrician, who looked her over fore and aft and said, "She's an absolutely perfect baby!" As we were leaving, another couple brought in their infant, and I heard the doctor tell them, "My, my, an absolutely perfect baby!" That struck me as an odd coincidence. Within 15 minutes the same doctor had been lucky enough to examine probably the only two absolutely perfect babies in America. Must have been a red-letter day for him.

"Madame X" goes through 100 diapers or more in a week. She can dampen three diapers in five minutes and lie there with a look that says, "Wanna bet I can't make it four in a row?"

I have to laugh at parents who say, "You sacrifice a lot when

Ike Prepares To Act On 110 Pending Bills

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower dug today into a pouch of mail flown to his vacation headquarters from Washington and prepared to sign a sheaf of bills Congress passed just before adjourning.

The pouch containing the bills and other official business was the first sent to the summer White House at Lowry Air Force Base since the President arrived here last Saturday.

Eisenhower still had 110 pieces of legislation to act upon, and Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the Chief Executive was ready to sign some of the bills.

Action on the others will come later in the week when Bernard M. Shanley, Eisenhower's special counsel, arrives from Washington with recommendations covering the measures.

Eisenhower had no engagements scheduled today. The only other thing on the calendar was another round of golf at Cherry Hills Country Club.

Male Dazzlers

By INEZ ROBB

Men are the sensitive sex, especially given to tears and tantrums when a woman writes on masculine raiment, which is apparently a sacred subject.

So, to soothe the ruffled feathers in advance, let me say at once that I am taking no sides on what follows: Like Doc Kinsley, I am merely reporting.

I simply feel it is my duty to inform the congregation that fur coats for men are the dernier cri in the winter ahead.

INDEED, I will even go a step further and say that momma and poppa coats in fur are the newest thing in and for match mates.

Identical fur coats for the bread winner and the little woman are ready to dazzle the autumn fashion market.

They are a logical extension of mother-and-daughter, father-and-son, aunt-and-uncle and kinsin' cousin outfits which have been so popular in recent years.

The coats, designed by furrier Leo Ritter to look like de luxe polo coats, are made of nutria.

The boys can have them in any one of four shades: honey biege, brown sapphire, gray or, for formal evenings at the neighborhood movie or corner coffee pot, in midnight blue.

THESE NEW fur bunnies are to the raccoon ski topper of my lost youth as Labrador mink to feline de alley. Of course, there are a few men who own mink-lined coats but they definitely are the enemies of society.

Men who would wear mink on the inside while there are yet women who can't even wear it on the outside are no friends of mine!

Tony and Sally de Marco, the dancers, have already invested in one of the Ike-and-Mike, they-look-alike sets. Frank Sinatra is about to follow suit so he can look like Ava Gardner.

But the new fur coats will also keep a bachelor warm, Mr. Ritter intimates. Dave Garroway, the gabby TV star, has at least tried on one of the fur burberies and had his picture took in it. It—the picture—certainly ought to make the folks back home feel Dave has made good in the big city.

OH, YES, how much do they cost? Around $1,250 each, and cheap at the price to be the first with the mostest polo coat since Paul Whitman dropped that hundred pounds. Pearl buttons optional.

Men are coming into their own not only in the fur coat department but also in "at home" clothes. For some time now it has been an accepted fact that a woman can't sit around home in just any old clothes. She must have "at home" garments for glamorous lounging over a hot washtub and a cold martini.

Well, sir, the big news is that a

Actress Drops Suit In Beating Charge

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Anne Sterling said today she has dropped her $7,840 damage suit against old man Bob Calhoun "because I'm about to leave on a singing tour and can't be tied up in a prolonged trial."

The 27-year-old blonde had charged Calhoun beat her with a cane following a party at his home early on March 24, 1952. She asked damages for nervous shock, cuts and bruises.

Calhoun denied the accusation and authorities took no action.

12 Trustees To Serve Until October Meeting

COLUMBIANA — Rules governing its incorporation under a state charter, as presented by chairman John L. Hutson, were adopted at the meeting in the public library Monday evening, of the Columbiana and Fairfield Township Historical Society.

Twelve trustees elected to serve until the October meeting include the officers, Miss Leila Beard, president; Leo Holloway, vice president; Mrs. R. E. Weaver, secretary; E. B. Dillon, treasurer, and Mrs. Glenn Grim, Miss Estella Esterly, Mrs. Allan White, Roy Guy, E. L. Calvin, Willard Vaughn, William Knuth and William Stewart, additional members.

A code of regulations was dismissed for further consideration at the next meeting Monday evening, Aug. 24, a special meeting to accommodate R. E. Happholdt, of the Firestone organization in Akron, who was unable to be present Monday evening. He will be accompanied by Dr. William Overman, Firestone historian, who will speak.

Chairmen of committees appointed by the president are: Mrs. Dick Fitzpatrick, street fair exhibit; Mr. Guy, membership; Wayne Paulson, publicity; William Stewart, genealogist. Persons who attended the first three meetings will be charter members of the corporation.

NO VACANCIES remain in the teaching staff of the Columbiana schools, the board of education announced at its meeting Monday evening, having employed Mrs. Vera Frayser, east of town on Route 14, as a fourth grade teacher, Mrs. Frayser taught in Washingtonville last year.

Mrs. Hulda Evans, Mrs. Forrest Stark and Mrs. R. E. Engle were employed as the school cafeteria staff. The board purchased five new typewriters, including two electric typewriters.

Alaska's Volcanoes May Provide 'Awning' To Make Our Summer Cooler—

VIOLENT ERUPTIONS from Mt. Tribent (shown above) and two other Alaskan Mountains, Mt. Megie and Mt. Spurr, covered an area 500 miles square with volcanic debris, that . . .

. . . caused "snowstorms" of ash which blacked out Anchorage, 80 miles from the nearest volcano. This car is shown covered with the ash. Anchorage residents wore dust masks for protection.

Clouds of volcanic ash and smoke from the recent eruptions of Mounts Trident, Megie and Spurr in Alaska may produce cooler weather in eastern U. S. This theory is advanced by Dr. Harry Wexler, chief of the Science Services Division of the U. S. Weather Bureau in Washington. The volcanic clouds blanketed an area 500 miles square. The ash carried thousands of miles on prevailing winds, acts as an insulating "awning" between the sun and the earth. Newsmap below shows how theoretical "awning" could drift over Canada and eastern U. S.

A Trip To The Holy Land

By REV. HAROLD B. WINN

Rev. Harold B. Winn, pastor of the First Friends Church, is participating in a flying seminar with a group of other Protestant ministers who will visit the Holy Land and interesting points in Europe. He describes his travels in a series of articles sent back to The Salem News.

Egypt: Land of Pyramids

We learned the Arab merchants in the bazaars are looking for the American tourist and when the bus driver took us into the narrow, crowded "shopping" district we discovered merchants with their wares in their hands, on their heads and in their carts.

Most places serve coca-cola on the house to indicate that prolonged business discussion is a pleasure. After much haggling, or should I say "bargaining," the article may be purchased very near the original offer made by the purchaser.

One fellow asked 25 piasters for a little gadget. I offered 10 and he got mad when I wouldn't change my mind. After five trips following me he finally sold me the item for the 10 piasters I offered.

When we got back to the plane the peddlers were actually as thick as flies. After jamming the whole street the police came and drove them away, along with their sheep, cattle and donkeys. The sounds, sights and smells in a crowd like that are terrific.

IN THIS WEIRD city, the tide of humanity seethes back and forth in many shades of color; the streets are filled with peoples of the East, Copts, Turks and others. The light-skinned inhabitants are Egyptians; the chocolate - skinned from upper Egypt and the black - skinned from the Sudan.

The pyramids and the sphinx were our destination this morning. The Pyramid of Cheops, one of the wonders of the world, was built 45 centuries ago. Each stone in this huge tomb weighs 2 and one half tons. And there are enough stones in the pyramid to build a four-foot wall around France.

For the journey to the pyramids, we mounted camels, as they were kneeling, and with much groaning they got to their feet. We had to hang on as they would throw you first forward to their heads and then backward in getting up.

I STUCK TO the saddle horn and we started toward the pyramids. The name of the camel I was riding was Marian Anderson, according to the driver. After riding farm animals in the states there is nothing I can compare to riding a camel. All you do is hold on and hope for the best.

We were cautioned about tipping the camel drivers because they would fight among themselves if one was singled out for a special tip. They flattered us, told us how many children they had at home to feed and would we please give them a piaster. If there is an art to begging these fellows have mastered it.

The camels left us at Mena House, a modern hotel where President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin met for conference during the last war. We ate there in fine Egyptian style.

Afterwards some of the fellows went swimming in the private pool and then we left for Cairo and the hotel.

Tomorrow I want to tell you about the guide's story of a typical Egyptian home, whose master has from one to four wives.

Aid To Crippled Children Is Traced

The multiple services of the Ohio Society For Crippled Children are available to everyone, Rotary Club members were told yesterday when R. C. Morrison of Columbus, service officer of the society, spoke to the club.

The Rotary Club, a cooperating agency in the society, has aided crippled children here for more than 20 years. Its own activities are financed through the annual sale of Easter Seals.

The Ohio organization, financed by tax money, helps crippled children to eventually lead more normal lives. Too many parents of crippled children, or those with cerebral palsy, fail to afford themselves of the society's services, Mr. Morrison said.

Joseph Bryan was program chairman for the day. Stephen Ross is chairman for the Rotary Club's annual family picnic next Tuesday at the Country Club.

Boys Placed In Monkey Cage For Tossing Stones

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Two boys, 10 and 12 years old, spent a few minutes peering out from behind the bars of the monkey cage at the Buffalo Zoo yesterday, under a sign that read:

"We were throwing stones at the penguins—great fun. Won't you join us?"

Curator Joseph A. Abgott said an attendant caught the youngsters, who were not identified, throwing stones at the birds. The boys were caged for approximately half an hour, until police arrived and gave them a lecture on zoo courtesy.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By R. L. LIDE

Fishing at Lake Guilford was generally poor last week.

I failed to observe any outstanding catches even if the lake was given a big play. The carp fishermen did all right however.

Fishermen using doughballs had a little fun and it is fun to get a carp on your line weighing from 3 to 10 lbs. Not only that, but I am led to believe carp are good eating if you know how to prepare them. The carp fishermen tell me this and they can't all be wrong. A lot of oldtimers can tell you about the time people owning ponds paid $25 per hundred for 3 inch carp for stocking purposes.

I get this information from D. F. Hahn who owns a farm and pond on the Homeworth road. According to Mr. Hahn, after the stocking was done, this was followed by force feeding primarily with stale bread. After the carp reached around three pounds usually within 2 years they took what they wanted to eat and placed them in the spring where they remained for three days. The next step was to cut off their heads back behind the dark streak and prepare them for the skillet. He said they were as tasty as any fish.

TEST SEINING on all three branches of Little Beaver Creek including Beaver Creek proper proved we had a good hatch of both small and large mouth bass.

The testing was done by members of the Fish Management Section of the Ohio Division of Wildlife. Three separate hatches were found in both large and small mouth bass. The smallmouth were 1/2 inch, 1 inch and 1 1/2 inches. The 1/2 inch group probably were not more than two weeks old. The largemouth were 1, 2 and 3 inches. Only a few stations failed to produce a bass hatch but that does not mean they are non-existent because you have to find their hiding places to net them. Effort was naturally limited in searching for them.

Rock bass hatch was observed at each point seined. One hole on the north branch of about 5 ft. by 10 ft. produced twelve mature rock bass.

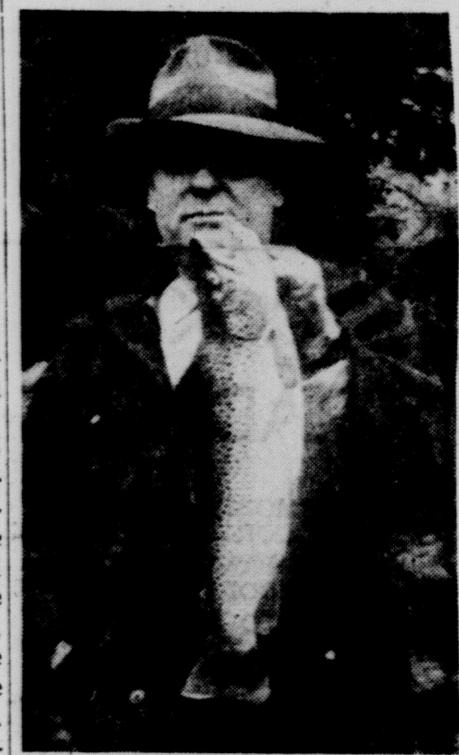

Large schools of minnows and crayfish in great numbers were observed. At least there is no shortage of bass food in the creek.

ONE OF THE most interesting fishermen I have ever met is Joe Yagle who lives at the Lincoln Hotel in East Palestine.

Fishing is one of his main hobbies. He makes a science of it. All rods, reels, lines and lures must be of a certain weight and balance for the type of fishing he desires to do.

The past winter and spring he has caught 24 rainbow and brown trout in the north branch of Little Beaver Creek none under 12 inches.

The largest one was a brown trout 18 inches long weighing three lbs. This was given to a friend who in turn had it mounted for his den. Joe follows the pattern of a lot of local fishermen however in returning his catch to the stream. Taking bass seems to be almost effortless for him, but to use his words he sees no reason to catch fish and give them away in competition with the fish markets. He does not mean to say however that he catches more fish than you could locate in a market as he has only limited time to pursue his sport.

Joe Yagle and the trout he caught in Little Beaver Creek.

SHADES OF WALTER JOHNSON — Bob Porterfield, Washington Senators' right-hander, holds up eight fingers to show the number of shutouts he has pitched this season, the eighth being a 2-0 blanking of the Boston Red Sox. Porterfield celebrated his 29th birthday by twirling a one-hitter for his 8th shutout—the most hurled by a Washington pitcher since the immortal Walter Johnson racked up that many 30 years ago, in 1924.

But don't get the idea you are going fishing in Beaver Creek and bring home trout. The ones that are there came down stream from the north branch of the creek where they are stocked by the State of Pennsylvania.

You will be lucky to tie in to one but if you do then it will be a dandy as the small trout stay where they are put it seems and the large ones head down stream sometimes.

FISH ARE ABLE to digest about anything it seems. Waid Newkirk of Alliance in dressing out some perch taken from Westville Lake was curious to see what they were feeding on.

Their stomachs were full of small clams shells and all. Incidentally, Westville Lake produces Lake Erie size perch running up to 13 inches. Looking over the records of Arthur Dunden the lake manager, a lot of people take home the limits of bluegills and perch. Some bass also are being taken.

Minoso Blasts Homer As Sox Whip Tribe

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians, down another notch in their quest for second place, sent Early Wynn to the mound tonight against Mike Fioresi of the Chicago White Sox.

Wynn is seeking his 13th victory, while the Chicagoan is bidding for his eighth.

The White Sox, sparked by Minnie Minoso's three-run homer, whipped the Indians, 6-2, last night and moved up a full game to six behind the New York Yankees, who lost to Washington, 2-1. Cleveland maintained its 11-game distance from the Yankees, but dropped five behind the White Sox.

And don't look now, but the Boston Red Sox beat Philadelphia, 7-6 and 7-5, yesterday and moved to within 1 1/2 games of the Tribe.

Minoso's blast was the high point of a five-run rampage in the seventh frame last night. He got two other hits, one a first-inning double which enabled him to score on Sam Mele's two bagger.

Cleveland's runs came in the fifth, when Bob Lemon doubled a man across, and in the sixth, when Joe Tipton was hit by a pitched ball with the bases loaded.

All of Chicago's 12 hits were off Lemon, who suffered his 11th defeat against 15 victories.

Red Refusal To Free All POWs Would Break Truce, Claim

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. officials seem to feel a Communist refusal to return war prisoners convicted of "crimes" would violate the Korean truce agreement as well as the Geneva convention.

Secretary of State Dulles has demanded prompt repatriation of every United Nations prisoner held by the Reds—hale, ailing or jailed after Communist trials.

Otherwise, he said, the United Nations will reciprocate in kind. Dulles' statement, upon returning this week from his trip to Korea, followed in the wake of reports that the Communists intend to keep prisoners they convicted until the imposed prison terms are completed.

Dulles ordered his legal aides to study the international aspect of the issue—which could snarl the Korean truce—in search of legal ammunition to reinforce his stand.

Informants said the legal experts carefully weighed the Korean truce agreement and the Geneva Convention, which lays down international rules for handling of war prisoners. They said it was tentatively decided that both documents would be violated if the Reds held on to the prisoners convicted of crimes.

These informants conceded that, in looking over the Geneva war prisoner provisions, they found the Communists could legally insist upon completion of sentences meted out to prisoners while under captivity.

But, they said, in such cases the country holding the prisoners must notify their government and identify them.

The Communists have made no move to inform the U. N. Command of any such detention plan and, accordingly, could be charged with violating the Geneva pact.

Overriding the Geneva Convention, however, is the detailed truce agreement signed with the U. N. by both the North Korean and Communist Chinese representatives.

This agreement makes no mention of the right to hold onto prisoners convicted of crime. It specifies that all prisoners are to be freed.

Fire Chief Reminds Repairs Need Permit

Fire Chief Clarence Wright reminded people today they must have a building permit and approval of plans and material for making home repairs inside the fire zone.

A number of complaints have been received by both the chief and the mayor that persons are doing repairs on their property within the fire zone without such permit and approval.

A city ordinance stipulates that any home building in excess of $100 must have a building permit and any repairs within the fire zone must have the approval of the fire chief and be constructed with approved fireproof material.

The ordinance provides for prosecution and fine not to exceed $100 for violations.

HEADLINE HEADACHE

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Headline writers, to whom long names always are a headache, faced a toughie here today.

Robert T. Oestreicher and Maynard Sensenbrenner were nominated for mayor.

The morning Ohio State Journal's banner headline was a masterpiece of brevity: "Oestreicher—Sensenbrenner."

Others told of "spy rings" that worked against them. They said names of informers will be turned over to Army authorities. The men said they would testify against them if the Army held courts martial.

Others threatened to get even in their own way. Repatriate after repatriate vowed in interviews to newsmen they would get revenge against "the rats and squealers."

A Missouri soldier said he was thrown into solitary confinement for 42 days because "an American told the Chinese I was planning to kill Chinese."

The informer, said Pfc. Robert Chyers, 24, of Steele, Mo., went through the Freedom Village processing center Wednesday.

"He is not a pro (progressive)—he is a rat. He is in this group right here," Chyers declared bitterly.

"Last night at Kaesong, he was afraid to come into our room," Chyers said the informer would "rat" to the Chinese and tell lies about fellow prisoners so that the Communists would "give him marajuana."

Pfc. John Powazi of New York City, said an informer was responsible for his being caught in an attempted escape.

"Seven of us," he related, "tried to get out but our supplies were found and we were stopped just before we were ready to go. An informer, one of the progressive rats, turned us in."

munjom in time to meet the delivery schedule.

Americans in the last batch delivered Wednesday were from the Changsong camp.

All previous Allied repatriates have come from Camp 5 at Pyok-tong near the Manchurian border, the largest of the North Korean stockades.

To Demand All POW Back

Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens talked with some of the returning Americans. He told newsmen at rFreedom Village, the processing center at Munsan, that every conceivable effort would be made to get back all the U. S. prisoners held by the Communists.

Later, he left for the United States. U. N. officials said 222 Chinese Communist prisoners, the last of 5,495 to be repatriated will be delivered to the Reds Thursday, together with 1,800 healthy North Koreans and 360 sick or wounded North Koreans.

A surly batch of 2,758 Chinese and North Koreans, including 1,200 North Korean civilians, was turned over to the Reds Wednesday.

They ripped off their clothing, yelled and shouted, and sang Communist songs, but seemed more subdued than Reds freed previously.

Four returning American prisoners said escape attempts had been foiled by Chinese because they were turned in by informers in their camp.

Each released POW said the Chinese knew too much about their plans and where they had hidden supplies for the discoveries to be accidental. Each said he was either thrown in jail on reduced rations, beaten or made to stand motionless in the freezing North Korean winter cold after he was caught.

Others told of "spy rings" that worked against them. They said names of informers will be turned over to Army authorities. The men said they would testify against them if the Army held courts martial.

POW Tells Of Red-Held 'Mystery' Unit

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea (AP)—A liberated American soldier said today the Communists may be holding Allied airmen shot down over North Korea the past 20 months in a "mystery company."

Cpl. William H. Abbott, 24, of Jerusalem, Ohio, said prisoners at Camp Two, 50 miles northeast of Sinuiju, were broken up into four companies, one of which was not listed by the Chinese.

"The company did not participate in anything that went on in Camp 2," he said.

The prisoners inadvertently learned of the "mystery company" when some supplies were misdirected to another company.

He said other prisoners saw and heard of many airmen passing through the Sinuiju area, which was heavily bombed by the Allies.

"They had to go somewhere," he said.

He said men scattered about Camp 2 believed the fourth company was made up of fliers downed since the Reds exchanged prisoner lists at Panmunjom December, 1951.

He said the POWs had no idea how many men were in the company.

Abbott, captured in December 1950, said he was shifted to three different camps because the Communists considered him a "reactionary," a person who resists Red indoctrination measures.

Woman Dives 9 Stories Into 4 Feet Of Water

NEW YORK (AP)—The 36-year-old wife of an airline executive put on a bathing suit early today and dived nine stories from the roof of her apartment house into a swimming pool with four feet of water, police said.

The woman, Mrs. Laura Mae Creighton, blonde mother of three, was taken to Coney Island Hospital in critical condition.

Patrolmen pulled Mrs. Creighton from the pool, attached to the fashionable Brooklyn apartment building where she and her family live.

Her husband, Thomas Creighton, treasurer of Eastern Air Lines, and their three children were in the ground-floor apartment at the time.

No one had an official explanation for the woman's action.

Child Clawed To Death By Pet 200-Pound Bear

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP)—Three-year-old Andrew Mark Palmer Jr. was clawed to death by a 20-pound bear that had been his household pet.

His mother found the bear mauling the lad in the yard of their home. When she tried to save the boy, the bear attacked her.

A neighbor, hearing the scuffle, shot the bear to death.

The bear, about 3 year old, had been bought by the Palmers at a Phoenix carnival when it was a cub.
